THE HAWK

VOLUME IV

PUBLISHED BY
CLASS OF "57"

JOHNSTON COUNTY TR. SCHOOL

Foreword

We, the class of 1957, are now embarking on the sea of life, and have the responsibility to continue the high ideals that have been instilled in us during our four years at J.C.T.S. We have been placed at the wheel to guide those who would follow.

The task that has been set is a challenge, not only to us but to our motto - "The Door of Success Is Labeled - Push." We must push hard to meet that challenge in every respect, in order to succeed. May the lessons learned here serve as a burning inspiration to those who follow.

Leaving Johnston County Training School is not an easy task. It is a moment of conflicting emotions. Emotions of happiness and sadness of which we are proud. So we present "THE HAWK" to keep before you the pages of unforgettable memories of our faces and names which, over the years, would have been forgotten, and to keep our cherished days around J.C.T.S. forever alive.

Harold Nixon, Editor

DEDICATION

Class of "1957"

PRINCIPAL'S MESSAGE

It is interesting to know that the seniors of '57 are making a parting expression to the school and their friends through the publication of the 1957 edition of the Hawk. The senior's message in this respect will be significant, because it will represent one of the last productions of the class prior to graduation in May.

The work on the Yearbook gives a splendid opportunity for cooperative group action, thus conditioning the members of the class for the bigger task to be faced in their respective communities. The spirit of sharing in this endeavor will certainly have future implications, and as such will prove to be of educational value to each senior.

As you enter this last phase of your secondary school experiences be sure to develop a clear, definite, educational objective, or goal for yourself, and if you are sufficiently determined you will find a way. In order to achieve in this respect the initiative must be supplied by you, because it is not what others may hope or desire for you that is important, but it is what you earnestly desire for yourself.

You will be expected to be a success, whether you continue your educational activities or whether, because of circumstances, you decide that you will not be able to go on to school, and must work out a livelihood in your own community. Either of these choices will require the best in you, and it will not be what you receive in the world that will count most, but what you give; not what you say, but what you do. Be an example of giving your best and it will always pay the greatest dividends.---

CLASS SONG

(Maryland My Maryland)

Dear Training School,
We'll miss you so,
But it's time for us to go.
Though we leave you, with regret,
We will cherish your memory yet.

Our hearts are broken from the start,
Because the time has come for us to part.
We'll think of you and for you we'll pray
Even though we're far away.

We cannot express our thanks to you,
For your instructions and guidance too.
May those whom we leave behind
Have the thoughts of us in mind.

There is a space in our hearts for you,
Those who have been loving, kind and true,
Those who have helped us every day
In starting us on our successful way.

Even though we leave you now,
We shall return someday, somehow
And so we leave with tear stained eyes
For we regret to say good-by.

CLASS POEM

To the school we love so dear,
We regret to leave you here
Although our troubles have been few
We'll cherish memories of you.

Of all the good, better or best
J. C. T. S. stands out from the rest.
It has been standing for many years,
In spite of doubts, troubles and tears.

To the principal and teachers too,
We will always remember you.
You, who have taught us in every way
All the things we know today.

To the students, loving, true,
All our happiness we leave with you.
May every opportunity be success
And may the coming years be your best.

Now the time has come to part,
And we leave with broken hearts.
For we must face the outside world,
Every boy and every girl.

Each of us is on our way,
Hoping to reach success someday
Our goal we have set so high
We're determined to reach it by and by.

CLASS HISTORY

"We strive, and we strive, and that is life. We are together, and we will part, and that is death."

Between living and dying various things will happen. There will be joy and sorrow; health and illness; understanding and misunderstanding, but if there is a star in view, there is a need to travel upon its rays. That is what we, the class of 1957, had to face when we enrolled at J.C.T.S. in the Fall of 1953.

We, as a large family, enrolled with approximately 160 students. We organized our class which was divided into five sections. With our advisors Mrs. Brame, Mrs. Perry, Mr. Cofield, Mr. Dublin. Those who were chosen to lead the class were: President, Harold Nixon; Vice-President, Ozzie M. Smith; Secretary, Dorothy Nixon; Assistant Secretary, Lola J. McNeill; Treasurer, Horace Smith.

We were well represented in all activities; Basketball; Choral Club; Band Dramatics; Dancing; Student Council; etc. In the Student Council, Barbara J. Stevens represented us as secretary; Dorothy Nixon, Assistant Secretary and Horace Smith Treasurer. We were proud to know that Dorothy Nixon represented us as Miss J.C.T.S., because of her scholastic achievements.

Having begun a new year as sophomores, we felt we were full members of the J.C.T.S. family. We organized with the following as officers: President, George Cole; Vice-President, Ozzie M. Smith; Secretary, Lola J. McNeill; Assistant Secretary, Barbara Stevens; Treasurer, Richard Avery. Our advisors were: Mr. Lamberth, Mrs. Perry, Mr. McLean, and Mrs. Brame.

During this year our greatest aim was to work a little harder in order that we might rest our senior days. The most important event of this year was our Bunny Hop. That was the starting of our class treasury. Now, we were going some place.

Our class was considered an all round class. Several students belonged to the Honor Society; some still held offices in the Student Council; some were basketball players and others were members of various activities and clubs. Finally, this school year ended with the class well adjusted to our teachers and studies, and we just couldn't wait until the following year, knowing that we would be Juniors.

Returning the year of 1955, we felt that we had only come half way. During our first class meeting, it was noticed that the family had divided, not in mind, but in groups. A few of us were still climbing; others were gone to see what their future would be out of school. Our officers were: President, Horace Smith; Vice-President, George Cole; Secretary, Della Bridges; Assistant Secretary, Lola McNeill; Treasurer, Harold Nixon.

One of our advisors, returned with a new name. Mrs. Perry changed to Mrs. Barnes. The other advisors were still Mr. Lamberth, and Mr. McLean.

The biggest affair for this year, as you can imagine, was our Prom. It was fabulous. Probably some on lookers felt that they were on their way to the stars, because of our theme "Stairway to The Stars."

We made History that unforgettable night, April 27, 1956. Our class song, "It's Almost Tomorrow," was sung so beautifully and so sincerely, that tears were flowing from the eyes of Juniors and Seniors.

Our two highest ranking students, Lena Bennett and Della Bridges, served as Junior Marshalls in the 1956, Graduation Exercises. The job was well done.

At last we are Seniors. We have much work to do in order to reach the goal we have set for 1956-57. We retained our previous officers and advisors except Mrs. Brame whom we lost to the freshmen.

First, we began lightening our load by presenting our senior play; "Little Miss Somebody," which was a great success. Our next step was to get our rings so that we would feel more like seniors.

We breathed a sigh of relief! Someone mentioned the Annual. Oh! how could we have forgotten the Annual! We started late, but it will be a success. During the hard work of preparing our annual, we had one of the worst accidents one could have. Our dear school caught on fire, and much of our annual material was destroyed. This slowed our progress until we could order more materials. During this waiting period, we, the class, thought of something to do. As ever, we needed money, so we sponsored a "Sweetheart Ball," the 15th of February, which was a great success.

The highlights of the year to which everyone largely looks forward with much excitement, are now at hand, namely; the Parents Banquet, Class Day, Class Night and then GRADUATION!!!

Our four years have been crowded with so many events that it has been hard to select the most important one's. Truly, these have been our historical years which will forever remain in our memories of Dear Ole J.C.T.S.

SENIOR CLASS PROPHECY

During my vacation period, I was just sitting around the house with no place to go and nothing to do. Then all of a sudden, I had a bright idea! I decided to return to my old hometown and look up all of my classmates. Of course I had been receiving mail from all my friends, but to see them would tell a different story.

So, on a bright and sunny day in the year 1967, I left the city, driving my 1967 gold and blue Pontiac.

As I was nearing my hometown one of my tires appeared to be losing a little air I was wondering how far I was from a garage, when I saw a sign that said, "½ mile to your left, is the FIX IT WHEN YOU COME GARAGE," Partnership of Dodd and Johnson in my class of "57." When I pulled up at the garage, to my amazement, it was Thaddus Dodd and Henry Johnson. These fellows really had their work in hand. In two minutes flat, they had checked everything on my car, whew! What service! They didn't charge me one penny, plus they gave me three gallons of gas to celebrate our reunion.

I thanked them and went on my way after learning that there was a dance scheduled for two nights later and that I would see them there.

When I drove into town I couldn't help but remark to myself at the many changes that had been made. Even at that instant there was a new building being constructed and later to my surprise, I learned that none other than Horace Smith and Carl Lofton who are brickmasons, and William Penny, with Elmo Archibald who are carpenters were on the job. What friends and classmates I have!

By this time, I was practically starving and suffering with a minor headache, so I decided to stop at a Pharmacy to get a soda and a box of aspirins. I walked right in without noticing the name of the Pharmacy, and was completely amazed, for there looking at me from across the counter was the pharmacist, Shelton Merritt. Shelton really had a nice setup. I couldn't help envying him. We talked and relived memories for a couple of minutes when Yvonne Vinson who is a telephone operator came in. I guess people probably wondered what was wrong because each was trying to talk at the same time. Yvonne stated that she liked her career very much.

We then departed, each promising to see the other at the dance. I then went to my place of refuge, there seeing some of my old neighbors and new ones also. I decided to take a short nap, but after finding that I was just too happy to go to sleep, I decided to take a sightseeing cruise around the town. I stopped in at the local hospital and much to my surprise and also happiness, I learned that the entire staff were members of the class of "57." There I found the head nurse to be Rosa Watson. Others assisting her were Orelia Gulley, Claudine Moore, Dorothy Moore, Ida Murchinson, Dorothy Nichols, Alice Peacock, Clementine Marshall, Almeta Berry, Ruby Bryant, Patricia Chisholm, Nora Sanders, Catherine Smith, Bernice Hamilton, Gerelene Dowdy, Berelene Dowdy and Yvonne Eason. The head doctor was Thomas Bryant who was noted for a very important discovery in the field of medical science. His assistants were James Cole, Harold Sanders, Grady Langston and Thomas Whitley. The most experienced surgeons classified as the three top ones in their field were Lola McNeill, John McPhaul and George Cole. Not wanting to take up much of their valuable time I congratulated all of them, made a quick observation and then left, knowing I would see them again.

I decided to visit the courthouse learning that there was an important case scheduled. I decided to spend some time there listening to the case. My view was not very clear from where I was sitting, so I didn't recognize the lawyer who was handling the case so beautifully. Then he turned and there stood, Roger D. Miller, the famed lawyer throughout the towns and counties. I left before the court was adjourned and before I could congratulate Roger, but I made a quick note to remember to do so at my next opportunity.

Since time was not in my favor I decided to call it a day by returning home. There I had dinner and decided to visit a couple of relatives, returning very early in order to rest.

I awoke the next morning to a very beautiful world. It looked as though the Creator had dipped a paintbrush into many different colors and had just painted everything in sight. After breakfast, I decided that I had better shop for something to wear to the dance on the following night. I went into one of the finest dress shops, that you can ever imagine. After looking at the different creations, I chose two which I considered the best. As I observed the name brand, I saw that one was designed by Ozzie Smith, and the other by Ann Avery. These young ladies were very outstanding in their creations. I learned that they were not in town at the present time, having to attend a meeting in Paris, but that they would soon arrive.

As I left the dress shop, I was wondering what place could I most likely visit, when it all came to me. My old "Alma Mater." As I drove up I noticed that this building was just as impressive as ever. I parked my car, went up the steps and into the principal's office. After visiting with him, I went to the different classrooms, and was I surprised to find Lena Bennett, Veleria Ingram, Ada Watson, Barbara Stevens, Thelma D. Watson and Lawrence Vinson had secured jobs there. A happy day! We knew no and could find no desire to leave each other, but knew that there would be a time for reliving memories together. From the school, I went home and parked the car. I decided that I would walk to stretch my legs a little. As I passed a dentist office, I overheard his conversation. "Gee, Mommy, Dr. Nixon is very nice, isn't he, I didn't even feel him pulling my tooth. Remembering that Harold Nixon was a dentist, I knew the little boy was talking about him. Knowing too, that he would be very busy, I decided to see him at another convenient time.

I walked on and stopped to reminisce old memories with Barbara Nichols who had become established in the field of babbering. She told me about our other classmates who were in this particular field and where I could find them. They were Warren McCullers, Mary Cozart, Waddell Elliot, Jonathan Barfield, Henry Barfield and Lena Williams. I knew no one would dare go around without a haircut with these many barbers in town.

Desiring for something to eat, I decided to return home to have lunch and watch television for awhile. Turning to channel W K V D, I learned of a game that was scheduled in the next five minutes. After a quick sandwich and a glass of milk, it was time for the game to start. Looking closer, I recognized two of the players to be my former classmates; Robert Watson and Augustus Williams. Those young men really played that afternoon. As I turned to another channel, W R A C, I heard a very familiar voice. This was concert hour. I thought this young lady looked familiar and finally recognized her to be Thelma G. Watson whose voice was very beautiful. Congratulations, Thelma!

I received a call from Elaine McKay, a classmate, who was the former Elaine Vinson. Elaine has established herself very nicely in the commercial education field. She told me of our other classmates who are in this field also. They were Janet Smith, Delois McNeill, Garland Rodgers and Geraldine Liles. I was hoping that I would see them at the dance. During our conversation, she also told me that these four people were doing a very good job in their secretarial career. They were George Hall, Bettie Smith, Helen Thomas and Evelyn Hobbs. We ended our conversation by saying we would see each other at the dance.

I decided to get a retouch on my hair for the dance, and I stopped at Sanders' Beauty Salon. You're right! Josephine Sanders was the proprietor. I can say she really did a nice job on my hair. She also told me some of the things that I had not yet heard. She stated that Leon Dublin, Beulah Dublin, Bronnie Evans, and Richard Avery were some of the most outstanding X-Ray Technicians in that field. I also learned that I would hear and enjoy a sermon by the Reverend Eddie Harley, who was a former classmate of ours. I knew that I simply had to go to church the following Sunday. Then too, I learned that Thelbert Sanders had his own business of Carpentry and was really becoming a success with it. I learned that my old dear friend and former classmate, Dell Holder was an excellent laboratory technician and that, James Lee had decided to make the Air Force his career.

What a joyous reunion it was at the dance! I can assure you that the dance was a magnificent affair.

Now is the time for me to close, but bear this in mind, that wherever you may roam, there is still no place like home.

ACTIVITIES

This collection of trophies and banners in some way expresses the singular achievements of the Training school outside of regular curricular activities. The student groups responsible for this form of participation for the school, in a large way will represent the boys and girls most likely to succeed in later life. The competitive nature of the work required here will greatly influence the proper cooperative endeavor of the students as they strive to make life adjustments in their respective communities, thus justifying the time spent on these projects.
